CITY OF CLARKSBURG

Updates from City Manager, Tiffany Fell

Building Community Together:

As we wrap up another Fourth of July weekend, I hope everyone had a safe, enjoyable, and memorable holiday celebrating with family, friends, and neighbors. It was wonderful to see so many members of our community come together to enjoy the many events and activities taking place throughout Clarksburg over the last few months.

This year's celebrations reflected our continued commitment to creating more opportunities for residents of all ages to connect, have fun, and take pride in our city. From family-friendly activities and live entertainment to community gatherings and special events, our goal has been to make Clarksburg a place where there is always something happening to bring people together.

I want to thank our City departments, volunteers, community organizations, local businesses, sponsors, and everyone who attended and supported these events. Your enthusiasm and participation are what make these efforts worthwhile.

We hope you've noticed our increased focus on community programming because this is just the beginning. We are committed to building on this momentum and offering even more exciting events and activities throughout the year. We encourage everyone to stay connected with the City of Clarksburg through our website and social media channels, because there is much more to come.
